

Publications

Acadia's Communications Office produces targeted publications for internal and external audiences, including annual reports, newsletters, brochures, posters, and advertisements. We create non-academic publications, recruitment materials, and other high-quality print and digital materials.

We offer expertise in a wide range of services that include communications planning, graphic design, print and web production, as well as media buying. In addition, the Communications Office is a resource for Acadia University brand identity and editorial style standards for internal and external collateral.
