

Faculty of Arts
Assistant Professor of Economics
Tenure-Track (Probationary)
Position #: 10302

Acadia University is recognized as one of Canada's premier undergraduate institutions. Academic innovation and a personalized learning environment have garnered the university a reputation for success. Acadia is nestled in the Town of Wolfville, amongst orchards and vineyards in Nova Scotia's Annapolis Valley. A short walk from the shores of the renowned Bay of Fundy, the area offers a small-town setting with a relaxed lifestyle and outstanding cultural and recreational opportunities. With a progressive commitment to sustainability, the region offers locally crafted artisan food and beverage with many communities embracing organic, fair trade, and farm-to-table ideals. The Annapolis Valley is home to highly developed agricultural, agri-food, bio-technology, and manufacturing industries that offer growing employment and research opportunities. It is also home to 14 Wing Greenwood, the largest air base on the East Coast. Southern Nova Scotia is surrounded by ocean and therefore has an experienced fishing industry, marine research, and ocean technology companies. Halifax, which is only 50 minutes from Wolfville, provides a wide variety of opportunities and connections academically and commercially in terms of research.

Acadia University acknowledges that we are in Mi'kma'ki, the ancestral and unceded territory of the Mi'kmaq. This territory is covered by the "Treaties of Peace and Friendship" which the Mi'kmaq, Wəlastəkwiyyik, and Peskotomuhkatiyyik Peoples first signed with the British Crown in 1726. These treaties did not implicate or affirm the surrender or transfer of land to the British, but recognized Mi'kmaq title and set the rules for what was to be a long-standing relationship between nations. Acknowledging the land that we are on, means that we are working towards decolonization across campus.

The Department of Economics invites applications from candidates for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor commencing on July 1st, 2023.

Preference will be given to candidates whose research specialization is in international economics, broadly defined, including but not limited to the intersection of international economics with macroeconomics, finance, development economics, or other areas of economic inquiry. Exceptional candidates in other fields may be considered.

Candidates must demonstrate the potential to establish the foundation of an enduring and productive involvement in scholarly activity and research. Candidates will be expected to teach five undergraduate courses per academic year, including principles, statistics, and likely macroeconomic theory, develop original courses in their areas of specialization, and contribute to teaching excellence and university service.

Academic Qualifications: Candidates should hold or be about to complete a PhD in Economics or closely allied field.

How to Apply: Candidates are asked to submit their application in a single PDF document to Faculty.Careers@AcadiaU.ca. Receipt of the application will be acknowledged via email. Applications should include the following:

- position number (include in the subject of the submission email),
- a cover letter of application, current CV, summary of any teaching experience including evidence of teaching effectiveness, a one-page research statement and copies of the candidate's job market paper and other relevant research, and three letters of reference to be sent separately.
- application should be addressed to:

Dr. Andrew Davis, Department Head
Acadia University
Wolfville, Nova Scotia, Canada B4P 2R6
Email: Faculty.Careers@AcadiaU.ca

Acadia University invites applications from all qualified individuals; however, Canadians and permanent residents shall be given priority. The University encourages applications from Indigenous people; African Canadians; African Nova Scotians; persons with disabilities; visible minorities; women; persons of any minority sexuality, gender identity or gender expression; and all intersections of these identities. Acadia embraces the principles of equity, diversity, and inclusion as fundamental in creating an expansive academic environment and champions diverse knowledge systems as pillars of academic excellence.

All applicants are required to submit an online Employment Equity Self-Identification Form as part of their application package. Failure to complete the form by the closing date will result in the disqualification of your application.

Closing Date: January 13th, 2023

Accessibility Statement

The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members.

The University will provide support in its recruitment processes to applicants with disabilities, including accommodation that takes into account an applicant's accessibility needs. If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact Karen Roberts, Administrative Assistant, karen.roberts@acadiau.ca.