

ACADIA

UNIVERSITY

Acadia offers a stimulating, vibrant environment, on and off campus, where dedicated faculty inspire and challenge students to be their best. Academic innovation has garnered the university a reputation for excellence in teaching and research at the undergraduate and graduate level. Our history of providing excellent academic programs and outstanding student life activities, combined with our setting in the university-oriented community of Wolfville, N.S., have all contributed to Acadia being recognized as one of Canada's premier primarily undergraduate universities.

Department of History and Classics Tenure-Track Position: Assistant Professor

Position # 10707TT: The Department of History and Classics invites applications for a tenure-track position in East Asian History at the Assistant Professor level to commence July 1, 2019.

Candidates should have completed a PhD in History or relevant discipline by the appointment date and show evidence of a developing research program. The successful candidate must demonstrate a record of teaching excellence and student engagement at the undergraduate level. The successful candidate will develop courses in East Asian history and show an ability to connect with interdisciplinary courses at Acadia, including courses dealing with issues of social justice, international relations and/or law, environmental and health studies, including the history of medicine. The candidate should be able to perpetuate the department's contribution to a wide range of course offerings in the multi-disciplinary minors, for example: WGST, Legal Studies, Comparative Religions, Diaspora Studies, IDST, and the Health Sciences option.

The application must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, confirmation of a terminal degree, a sample of scholarly writing, and teaching dossier. The dossier should include a statement of teaching philosophy, official teaching evaluations, and samples of course syllabi. Please arrange for three letters of reference to be sent to:
