Residence: More than just a bed

Acadia’s strategic plan – Personalized Education for a Complex World – calls for the provision of a “Dynamic Residence Life Program that supports engaged learning, academic achievement, intellectual development, and respectful personal relationships”. The residence experience is carefully designed to challenge students to succeed academically and develop personally.

Through community development initiatives, residence staff members and house councils develop intentional opportunities for residents to learn skills, gain experience, acquire knowledge, understand themselves. The Residence Life Program seeks to integrate students’ academic and residence experience to provide an environment that facilitates transformational learning.

Residents in each section and building are part of a unique living and learning community. As members of that community, students are responsible for developing community living expectations, actively contributing to a culture of self-governance, and building ownership. Through their residential communities, students develop study groups, share common interests and begin lifelong friendships.

Diversity is an important element of the Residence Life Program. Acadia’s international students come from over 60 different countries, many of which make up a significant proportion of the residence population. The residence program embraces cultural and ethnic differences, and works to develop an understanding and appreciation of these differences with residents.

The residences are where students’ academic, personal and social experiences converge upon each other to create a seamless learning environment. Residence is a focal point of the Acadia experience.
Your Community Supports

Resident Assistants

Resident Assistants (RAs) are peer role models responsible for developing a community within a residence. To accomplish this task, RAs specialize in understanding the unique needs of each student in their section, and have an appreciation of diversity and understand that residents’ needs vary. RAs address those diverse needs through personalized interaction with each resident, creating inclusive programming and empowering residents to be engaged citizens within their larger residence community by getting involved in residence events and House Council meetings. They also act as an academic resource for students. RAs are aware of campus resources and intentionally involve faculty and staff to provide expertise to help students succeed academically and personally.

Senior Resident Assistants

Senior Resident Assistants (SRAs) are students with previous RA experience who lead a residence staff team of their peers. The SRA plans staff meetings and training sessions, and communicates the needs of the residence staff team to the Residence Life Coordinators and Department of Residence Life. The SRA also collaborates with the House Council to develop the unique identity of the residence, and craft an environment of self-governance within the house.

House Council

The House Councils are comprised of three students who have been hired by a Student Representative Council panel to assume leadership positions within residence buildings. The executive members are hired towards the end of the previous academic year, and floor or section representatives are elected in September. The House Council members work parallel to and in collaboration with the Acadia Students’ Union (ASU) Vice President Student Life as well as with Resident Assistants to provide programming, develop house identity, and build a culture of ownership, self-governance and spirit. The House Councils have access to funds from the ASU to purchase capital items for the house and fund community development initiatives. Additionally, the House Council Presidents are members of the ASU House Council Presidents Committee, chaired by the Vice President Student Life, of which meets weekly to discuss events and ideas, to promote activities, and to raise concerns from residents.

Welcome Week Leaders

Welcome Week Leaders are volunteers who are recruited and trained by the Department of Residence Life to assist new students with their transition into university life at Acadia. To this end, these leaders’ primary responsibility occurs during Welcome Week. The leaders are here to help new students in all capacities with their move in and preparation to university life. Residents will see them actively involved, full of energy and ready to help them get involved.

Resident Rights & Responsibilities

The embodiment of these rights and responsibilities within the individual and the residence culture is critical to a positive experience for all members of the residential community. Residence Life Rules and Procedures

The following sections outline the rules and procedures of the Residence Life Program. The policies are designed to reflect the values of the Residence Life Program, and to ensure each resident’s comfort and safety. Each resident has the responsibility to adhere to these procedures, and the larger policies governing the Acadia community. Any questions regarding the procedures outlined in this handbook should be directed to the Department of Residence Life.

The rules and procedures in this handbook are reviewed annually. Residents interested in making recommendations on any of the procedures should contact the Department of Residence Life. Acadia University and the Department of Residence Life reserve the right to adjust these policies as needed to better match the values of the University and Department of Residence Life. Any policy changes will be communicated to the residence population through electronic messages.

The Residence Life program is also governed by Acadia University’s Non-Academic Judicial Program. The policies of this program are outlined in the Non-Academic Judicial Handbook, available through the Student Services Office, or online at: http://studentservices.acadiau.ca/non-academic_judicial.html

Community Living & Self-Governance

The Residence Life Program’s value of self-governance calls each resident to participate in creating a positive community atmosphere. Residents are encouraged to adopt a sense of ownership over their residence, and honor the policies and expectations governing residence life. Each resident is encouraged to remind other community members of the residence life policies and section expectations when necessary. The Resident Assistants and Residence Life Coordinators are available to facilitate this atmosphere, and assist residents in understanding the values of the Residence Life Program.

Each resident has the responsibility to actively contribute to the community of their residence section and residence. An important part of this contribution is attendance at regular section meetings where important information is shared, event ideas are discussed and a sense of community is developed. Section meetings are also an appropriate time for residents to share concerns about their residential community, and to discuss and reach solutions as a section. Through section meetings residents will develop and agree on section expectations for which all members of the community are responsible.

Damages

To address common area damages, each residence building assumes collective responsibility for damage repair. The cost to repair unacknowledged damage to common areas is shared by each student in the residence building, with the understanding that every resident shares accountability to care for their residence.

Wherever possible, the Department of Residence Life seeks to hold the individual(s) responsible for damages accountable, in which case the said individual(s) will be charged for repair or clean-up costs. Additionally, damages will be assessed after every month, to ensure that residence buildings are repaired as quickly as possible.
Residence Alcohol Rules and Procedures

The Acadia Residence Life Alcohol Management Rules are written with the intention of crafting an environment in which individuals who choose to consume alcohol and are of legal age (19 years and older), can do so safely and responsibly, and those who choose not to consume alcohol can do so without penalty or pressure. General Rules and Procedures

Tobacco-Free

Acadia University is a tobacco-free environment. Use of tobacco products (such as cigarettes, chewing tobacco, cigars, hookahs, e-cigarettes, vaporizers, etc.) is only permitted in the smoking stations located along the perimeter of campus. The use of tobacco products is not permitted in residence.

Illegal Substances

In accordance with provincial and federal legislation, illegal drugs and substances are prohibited from residence and Acadia campus. Paraphernalia related to the consumption, use, or production of illegal substances are also prohibited and will be confiscated by campus staff if found in residence.

Scents

In consideration of the difficulties that exposure to scented products causes individuals with sensitivities and allergies; all employees, students and visitors present on campus are encouraged to refrain from wearing scented personal care products such as perfumes/aftershave, lotions, hair spray and deodorant. In addition, Acadia cleaning staff have agreed to use products that do not leave residual odors.

Pets and Animals

To ensure each resident’s comfort and safety and to prevent residence damage, pets of any kind are not permitted in the residence, including fish. The only exceptions to this rule are University Professional Staff living in apartments on campus, and individuals with a medically documented requirement for a support animal. Exceptions are determined at the discretion of the Manager, Residence Life.

Businesses and Solicitation

Residents are not permitted to operate a business, or conduct business from their residence room. In addition, solicitation, advertising or campaigning is prohibited in the residences, except for campus events and Acadia Students’ Union and house council elections. Students participating in house council or ASU elections are governed by the election policies of the Acadia Students’ Union.

Harassment and Discrimination

Each member of the Acadia community has the right to learn, work, live, and play in an environment free of discrimination and harassment. Participants in the Residence Life Program are responsible to uphold the principles of Acadia’s Policy Against Harassment and Discrimination, located online at: http://hr.acadiau.ca/tl_files/sites/hr/Policies%20and%20Procedures/Harassment%20&%20Discrimination.pdf
Sustainability

Acadia believes that universities have a responsibility to protect the environment and is committed to environmental and social sustainability on campus and in our community. There are many programs and services in residence. Students play an important role in helping make Acadia a sustainable campus.

Acadia Sustainability Office

The Acadia Sustainability Office is responsible for working with all Acadia departments and the ASU to advance sustainability on campus in the areas of water, waste, food and energy. Visit sustainability.acadiau.ca to learn more about sustainability initiatives at Acadia.

ASU Sustainability Officer

A student sustainability officer is elected each year to work with students and the Acadia Sustainability Office on a variety of campus projects. Residence Eco-Reps report to the ASU Sustainability Officer. Contact the ASU to learn more.

Residence Eco-Reps

Eco-Reps work the Acadia Sustainability Office, the ASU Sustainability Officer and Residence Life to raise awareness about environmental services and implement programs in residence. The positions are open to any interested student living in residence and elections are held in September. Ask your RA or House Council about this program.

Waste

Acadia has a multi-stream waste system on campus, which is one of the most advanced in the world. Numerous items are banned from landfills in Nova Scotia, such as organics and recyclable plastics, and staff, faculty and students are all required to sort waste correctly on campus. Please sort your waste into the following streams in the waste stations provided: Paper, Recyclables, Refundables, Organics, Garbage and broken glass. Battery recycling is also available in various locations around campus. If you have any questions about what goes where ask your custodian or your Residence Eco-Rep. You can also help reduce waste at Acadia by using a reusable water bottle and coffee mug. Ask for a mug discount at retail locations on campus and in the community.

Heating and Electricity

The campus is heated mainly with natural gas, which helps lower our air pollution and greenhouse gas emissions (GHG). Electricity is provided by Nova Scotia Power Inc. with a mix of fuel sources including coal, wind, hydro and biomass. You can help reduce energy and emissions at Acadia with a few simple actions. Lower your thermostat to 65 degrees Fahrenheit/18 degrees Celsius when your room is unoccupied for long periods, close windows when heating is turned on, turn off lights when you leave a room, turn off printers when not in use and unplug electronics when fully charged. Also, look for Energy Star appliances and electronics, which use less energy.

Water

Water on campus is supplied by the Town of Wolfville from a groundwater source. We have reduced our water consumption on campus by 40% over the last 10 years by installing low-flow showers and toilets and other water conservation measures. You can help too. Have shorter showers, run full loads of laundry, and turn off the tap when you brush.

Trayless Dining

You’ll notice there are no trays available in the dining hall. This program started by students in 2009 helps reduce energy, water, food waste and pollution on campus.

Share the Air

Acadia is a scent-free, tobacco-free and idle-free campus. Vehicle idling, which pollutes the environment and contributes to climate change, is not permitted for longer than 2 minutes on campus.

Book-A-Bike

If you don’t have a bicycle, you can borrow a bike for free at the library, just like you borrow a book. Stop by the circulation desk to learn more or visit sustainability.acadia.ca.
Non-Academic Judicial Process

Violations of the of these rules and procedures (and any other campus policies or laws) may be addressed through the Acadia University Non-Academic Judicial Process.

Discipline is used with the goal of education and to help a person understand that further infractions are unnecessary – not because he or she is afraid of the punitive consequences, but because of the realization that such actions are not acceptable in that community.

Individuals may disregard a regulation or policy of a university for specific reasons. The primary purpose of education through the Non-Academic Judicial Process is to uncover this reason, and demonstrate why it is inconsistent with the university community. We also aid in coming to the realization that certain regulations are necessary and that as a member of the society s/he must abide by them, take what consequences may result from not doing so, or find necessary channels through which to change them. In other words, we are attempting to assist in the process of reorienting attitude with respect to students' social, ethical, personal or religious development.

The sanction chosen is one which is balanced and appropriate when an individual is determined to be responsible for violating a campus regulation. The sanction is rarely solely that of punishment for the offense, but is chosen because that sanction is believed to be educational in its impact on the offender. The emphasis is of a dual nature, both to punish and to educate. Sanctioning through the judicial process also reaffirms the values of the campus community while encouraging everyone to internalize the disciplinary process.

If you have any further questions about the discipline process, ask your RA or contact the Coordinator, Student Development.

Residence Rooms and Common Areas

Student Rooms

Residents are expected to maintain the physical condition of their residence room and furnishings. Upon arrival on campus, each resident will complete a residence room inspection with their RA to evaluate the condition of the room and its furnishings. No aspect of a residence living environment should interfere or diminish the quality of another’s experience (i.e. excessive cologne, room cleanliness, or personal grooming). Upon departure, the residence room will be inspected by residence staff again. The cost of repair for any new damage, over and above expected ‘wear and tear’, will be applied to the resident’s student account. To maintain a safe environment, residents are not permitted to suspend any item of furniture above the ground of their residence room. This includes lofts/bunk beds, which can be created by raising residence beds, but excludes the use of bed risers, which are permitted provided they meet proper safety requirements.

Tenants Insurance

While the residence buildings are insured by the University, residents’ personal belongings are not. Residents are advised to secure their own contents’ insurance either through an extension of their parents'/guardians’ policy or through their own policy.

Cleaning

The Residence Life Program values a clean living environment. The residence common spaces (hallways, washrooms, kitchens, lounges, etc.) are cleaned regularly by university custodial staff. Respect for the next user, and custodial staff who are maintaining the space should guide residents’ use of residence common areas. Residents are responsible for maintaining the cleanliness of their own residence room. Basic cleaning supplies and access to a vacuum are provided, when necessary.

Common Spaces

Common spaces in the residences (i.e. lounges, study rooms, game rooms, kitchen spaces, etc) are provided for the use and enjoyment of all residents. Each resident should self-monitor their use of the spaces accordingly. To respect the next users and custodial staff these spaces should always be left in the condition in which they were found. Students wishing to reserve a common space for a meeting, event, program, etc. should make arrangements with their Senior Resident Assistant. To maintain a safe environment within and outside the residences, residents are not permitted to drop or throw any item through any common space, down stairwells, or out of residence windows.

Bicycle and Hockey Equipment Rooms

Most residences have space for residents to store bicycles and hockey equipment. Residents requiring use of these rooms can arrange for access to be added to their key-card by contacting Residence Life.
Hallways and Stairways

It is important that hallways and stairways be kept clear of items to ensure safe passage by all users, especially in the event of an emergency evacuation when navigation may be impaired by smoke or darkness. Residents are asked to store hockey gear, bicycles, drying racks, shoes, etc. either in their residence room or the appropriate storage room in their residence.

Elevators

Elevators are provided to facilitate transportation between floors in the residence for users with disabilities. Elevators are easily rendered unusable by misuse and horseplay and repairs to elevators are very costly and can take some time to complete. As such, elevators should be treated with respect. Additionally, elevator alarms and stop buttons are for emergency situations only, and should only be used appropriately.

Kitchens

Kitchen facilities are provided for the use of all residents in the residences and their use should be guided by respect for the next user. Residents are responsible for cleaning their own dishes, as well as general cleaning of the kitchen space after use (wiping counters, stoves, microwaves, etc.). Residents are also responsible for removing expired food items from the fridge.

Washrooms

It is important that washroom facilities are kept in a state that ensures the safety and hygiene of all residents. Clean-up of excessive mess is not expected of the custodial staff as part of their regular duties and will be treated as damage to the residence. Residents should remove all personal items from the washrooms after their use, to be considerate of the next user and to facilitate the work of the custodial staff.

Furniture

Common room furnishings are provided for use by all residents, and belong in the space that they were originally placed. Students wishing to temporarily move furnishings to facilitate an event, program, etc. should seek permission from their Senior Resident Assistant, and are responsible for replacing all items upon completion of the use for which permission was given. In addition, the furniture designated to each student room must remain in that room.

Alcohol Free and Quiet Sections

Some sections are designated as alcohol free or quiet sections. Students living in these sections have agreed to the conditions of these living environments, and they (as well as other residents) should be respectful of the other students in that environment. Lounges attached to Alcohol Free or Quiet sections are also treated with these restrictions.
Requesting Maintenance

Day-to-day Maintenance

In the event of required maintenance to a student room or common area, residents may request maintenance using the following form:

https://survey-system.acadiau.ca/index.php/545969

The following items are common issues that may be submitted on the maintenance request form:

- Burnt-out lightbulbs
- Missing or damaged window screens
- Heating issues
- Minor problems with windows (drafts, etc.)
- Clogged toilet or shower drains
- Problems with appliances in kitchens or kitchenettes (microwave, fridge, stove, etc.)
- Problems with washers and dryers in laundry area
- Issues with paper towel, toilet paper, and soap dispensers
- Issues with student room furniture (broken drawer, etc.)
- Leaky faucets
- Other non-urgent items

Emergency Maintenance

In the event of a serious maintenance problem requiring immediate repair, residents should call Safety and Security at 902-585-1103 so after-hours and weekend repair can be arranged. Some examples of problems requiring immediate repair:

- Malfunctioning lock function on front door of building
- Plumbing issues causing flooding
- Issues with fire suppression sprinkler system
- Elevator entrapment
- Broken window glass
- Other items posing a risk to the security and integrity of the residence building

Technology Issues

Problems with residence technology or communications devices should be reported to Technology Services by calling 902-585-4357 or submitting a ticket on the Hub Service Portal at https://hub.acadiau.ca/. This includes issues with cable and landline telephone service, as well as wired and wireless internet.

Residents experiencing problems with a weak Wi-Fi signal can report their concern directly here: https://hub.acadiau.ca/TDClient/Requests/ServiceDet?ID=89
Safety and Emergencies

Appliances

All electrical appliances being used in the residence must be CSA approved. In addition, it is prohibited to use any appliance or device with a heating element or that draws more than 500 watts of power in residence room. Such appliances and devices should only be used in the common kitchen area. These items include (but are not limited to) microwaves, coffee machines, irons, toasters, frying pans, toaster ovens, hotpots, kettles, etc.

Fire Safety Equipment and Systems

In accordance with provincial and federal building codes, and to ensure residents' safety, all residences are outfitted with fire safety equipment, sprinkler systems, and alarms (i.e. sprinklers, smoke detectors, exit signs, emergency exits, fire extinguishers, etc.). Residents must not to tamper with or misuse any of this equipment, and should notify their RA, Residence Life, or Safety and Security of any malfunctioning equipment as soon as possible.

Fire Sprinkler

Residents must not hang items from the sprinkler heads or pipes. The water released from fire sprinklers is normally blocked by a thin glass tube (smaller than the width of a pencil) that melts under heat. This tube is fragile and can be easily broken if items are placed on the sprinkler head, causing the sprinkler system to activate and cause extensive water damage. Additionally, items hanging from the sprinkler system will block the normal flow of water and reduce the system's effectiveness at suppressing a fire.

Spring-loaded Door Hinges

Some doors in residence are spring-loaded for fire safety. This is done to ensure that rooms are secure and to stop a fire from spreading rapidly through open doors. Residents must not tamper with these hinges – those that do may face charges under the non-academic judicial process.

Fire Alarms and Evacuations

In the event of a fire alarm or residence evacuation, all residents are to evacuate the residence as quickly as possible, following the posted evacuation procedures. Residents should feel their doors for heat before entering the hallway to exit the building. Once residents have exited the building, they should proceed directly to the designated meeting place and check-in with their Resident Assistant or Senior Resident Assistant. If a resident is unable to exit their room for any reason (smoke, flames, obstruction, etc.) they should close the room door (sealing the base with an article of clothing or a towel), open their window to ensure fresh air supply, and alert Safety and Security.
Decorations

Residents are encouraged to make their rooms feel like home! However, to maintain the physical quality of the walls residents are required to use 'paint-friendly' adhesives (i.e. sticky tack, 3M Command Strips/hooks) to hang items from the walls. In addition, to ensure the proper operation of life safety systems (lights, smoke detector and sprinklers) residents should ensure that no decoration directly covers, or indirectly affects the proper functioning of these systems.

String Lights and Extension Cords

LED decorative lights are permitted only in common areas where they can be inspected by residence and facilities staff for signs of cord damage. Extension cords are not to permitted unless used for temporary purposes. CSA approved power bars are an acceptable alternative.

Open Flames and Combustible Gases

Open flames are prohibited in residence buildings. This includes (but is not limited to) candles, incense, camp stoves and lanterns, lit cigarettes, barbecues, and Bunsen burners.

Emergency Exits

Emergency exits are to be used only in the event of an emergency or evacuation. These exits are both clearly indicated by an exit sign and alarmed. If an alarm is activated, residents should notify a residence life student staff member who will reset the alarm and investigate the situation. Residents are responsible for ensuring that these doors are secured at all times.

Building Access and Cameras

The front doors of each residence are secured and monitored by a live security feed to ensure the safety and comfort of all residents. Guests must contact the resident they are visiting, who will then must come to the door to admit them to the building. Residents are responsible to assist in maintaining the security of the residence by ensuring security cameras remain unobstructed and doors remain secured and are not propped open.

Keys and Access Cards

Keys cards are issued to residents by Safety and Security. To maintain security of the residence and all student rooms, residents should always know where their key and/or access card is. If a resident loses their key or access card, they should report it to Safety and Security as soon as possible and have the card replaced. Residents are responsible for the costs associated with replacing lost and/or unreturned keys and access cards.

Key and/or swipe card access is intended only for the person to whom it was provided by Safety and Security. Misuse of keys or access cards may result in a Non-Academic Judicial charge.
Building or Room Lockouts

Residents who are locked out of their room may ask an RA to let them back into their room. If a resident who is locked out is unable to find an RA during the day (as RAs are also students, they will be in class and may not be available) they should contact Safety and Security at 902-585-1103. If a resident is locked-out during quiet hours, they should contact the RA on-duty or Safety and Security to regain access to their room. If issued a temporary card by Security, the resident must return the card to Safety and Security and have their permanent card recoded.

Room Security and Theft Prevention

Each resident’s room is equipped with a lock to provide residents with security and privacy. Residents are responsible to protect their belongings from theft and damage by ensuring they close and lock their room door when they are not in their room or able to effectively monitor their room. For additional privacy, residents with swipe-card locks can deploy a deadbolt by lifting their interior door handle upward, or their exterior door handle upward after inserting and removing their key card. Residents should report all thefts to Safety and Security as soon as possible. To aid in the identification of stolen goods, residents are advised to record and store in a safe place the serial numbers of all valuable items. Such items include, but are not limited to, cameras, any computer equipment, stereo equipment, televisions, bicycles and watches. To avoid theft, residents are advised to lock their doors as per the above section.

Room Entry by University Staff

Acadia University reserves the right for authorized officials to enter resident rooms without resident consent for the purpose of attending to an emergency (health, fire, safety or mechanical) situation, assessing a potential policy violation, and routine maintenance and safety inspections.

Balconies and Rooftops

Residence balconies and rooftops have not been designed for safe student use. Students are not permitted to access them from inside or outside of a building. Students requiring assistance to hang banners, retrieve items, or access a balcony or rooftop for any other reason should contact the Department of Residence Life.

Windows and Screens

Windows and screens are provided to protect residents and their belongings from falls, weather conditions, insects, intruders, etc. Windows on lower floors are equipped with blocks to prevent them opening wide enough to allow a person to enter through the window. Residents are not permitted to remove or tamper with any element of their window or screen or frame. Windows must be shut and secured when residents leave their room for extended periods of time such as, overnight. This is to prevent theft, unauthorized entry and weather damage. This is especially during the winter season to protect the pipes located next to windows from freezing.
Mechanical Rooms, Service Areas, Attics

Residents are not permitted to enter mechanical & service rooms or attics for any reason. The doors leading to these spaces should be secured. Residents noticing an unsecured door should bring it to the attention of their Resident Assistant as soon as possible.

Prohibited items

There should be no item in the residence that compromises the safety of any resident or can be used (by design) to injure, discomfort, or disturb any resident. This includes, but is not limited to, weapons or imitation weapons of any type; flammable or explosive liquids, gases, and solids; or hazardous materials. Students who wish to hunt and require an area to store firearms, knives, or other hunting weapons must make arrangements through Safety and Security to store any prohibited items outside of their residence.

Acadia Identification Card

Your Acadia student identification card is the property of Acadia University and card abuse will be treated through the non-academic judicial process. The following infractions are not permitted: lending your ID card to another person, including the purpose of obtaining access to your residence/room as well as for obtaining meals from meal hall.

Students in Crisis, Medical Emergencies, and Over-intoxication

As Acadia is a caring community, we ask that you help our staff identify students in distress, especially when mental health and physical health are at risk. If you encounter a student who is showing signs of panic, distress, or heavy intoxication: whether you are on or off campus, please alert Residence Life Staff (during duty hours) or Safety and Security (902-585-1103), so that these students can be provided help and medical assistance.

Heavily intoxicated students must not be “put to bed” under any circumstances, and must be checked by an RA prior to being left alone to ensure their safety.

Release of Information Permission Form

The information that Acadia University collects during your time as a student is confidential and is not available beyond the campus community without your consent. This includes communication with parents or guardians.

By completing the Release of Information Permission Form, you can approve the release of certain information to others. The Release of Information will be in effect at Acadia from the Effective Date you provide until you graduate, or indicate otherwise. Approvals can be revoked at any time. The form can be found online at https://hub.acadiau.ca/TDClient/Requests/ServiceDet?ID=110.

Student Email

All students are provided with email accounts, and are encouraged to check their account regularly for important communications regarding residence. Email can be accessed by most devices on the Office 365 website at http://office365.acadiau.ca. You can also access your email through an app such as Outlook or Mac Mail. To register for a mailbox, please contact the Information Desk at 902-585-2110 or register online at http://acadiagear.com/asu-mailbox/.
Room Assignments

Assignment Process

For incoming first year students, rooms are assigned based on the date the $200 residence confirmation deposit is paid. In order to be assigned a room, one must accept their offer of admission and pay their admissions deposit, pay their residence confirmation deposit, and submit an application to live in residence (can be found at https://central2.acadiau.ca/my/). Room assignments are released to incoming students in the spring, and can be viewed on Acadia Central. Students who are unsatisfied with their assignment may contact Residence Life to be added to a waitlist for a different room type or residence.

Arrival

Students are permitted to move in to their room as of 9am on the designated arrival date. Dates of arrival will be posted on our website, and sent out via email and social media accounts. When moving into their residence room, each resident must contact their Resident Assistant to review their room inspection form and sign the check-in portion. The room will be checked again during check-out procedures.

Room Changes

Room change requests can be directed to the Department of Residence Life. Room changes cannot be made until after the September Room Freeze period, which is generally the first two weeks after arrival. Room changes after the Room Freeze period are processed on a first-come, first-served basis. Rooms cannot be held by phone or email, residents must visit the office in the Old SUB to arrange a room change.

Room Draw: Choosing a Room for Next Year

Residents wishing to return to residence the following academic year can participate in Room Draw; a process allowing them to select their preferred room in a lottery format. Room Draw will be held in early November, and consists of Same-Room Buy-out, In-House Room Draws and General Room Draw.

Same-Room Buyout allows students to select their current room for next year. Students in double rooms may only select their room as a double for the next year, not as a single room. Both students must agree to buyout the double. Residents selecting Same-Room Buyout receive a priority choice over those participating in the In-House and General Draws.

The In-House Room Draws allow returning students to select a room in their current residence for the following academic year. Residents are drawn by year of study (starting with 4th years and above) but otherwise randomly. Residents selecting the In-House Draw receive a priority choice over those participating in the General Draw.
Students interested in drawing a room in a different residence building, or moving into residence from off-campus may participate in the General Room Draw. All rooms not reserved during Same-Room Buyout and the In-House Room Draws are available for selection in General Room Draw, and are assigned in the same manner as the In-House Room Draw. Residents who are unable to participate in the room draw process may have another student select a room for them when their name is called by filling out a proxy form.

Departure

Each resident should notify their Resident Assistant of their departure date for winter break and at the end of the academic year. Once their room is empty in April, each resident will complete a room check-out form with their RA to assess the condition of their room and its contents. It is the responsibility of every student to sign up in advance with their RA for a room inspection.

Before a RA can inspect a room, all personal belongings must be removed and the room should be clean. Failure to leave the room in a clean and damage-free condition will result in a charge that will be applied to a resident’s student account. Residents must leave the building in April within 24 hours of their last exam.

Room Cancellations

Room cancellations must be submitted in writing or in person to the Department of Residence Life. Students withdrawing from University are responsible for notifying Residence Life. Students are also responsible for any cancellation or withdrawal fees outlined in the Academic Calendar.

Withdrawing from Residence

Residents may withdraw from residence at any time by notifying the Department of Residence Life in writing or in person. At the time of notice, Residence Life will provide a date by which the resident must vacate their room and complete the check-out process. After any damage charges, refunds will be made on a sliding-scale basis, dependent on the date of withdrawal. If you wish to withdraw from your meal plan as well, please let our staff know.
Summer & Winter Break

Winter Break

Residents are permitted to stay on campus for the winter break in December for an additional charge as outlined in the University Calendar. One residence will remain open for the winter break, pending availability, to accommodate students needing to stay. Students will be required to temporarily move to the winter break residence. Wheelock Dining Hall is not in operation over the Winter Break, however residents will be able to use the kitchen in residence, and in the Wong International Centre. Meals, events, and activities will be planned for residents staying for the winter break, and an RA will be available for support.

Summer Intersession

Residence accommodation is available to students participating in intersession courses over the summer months. Students wishing to stay for intersession can register with Residence Life. Due to the variability of the operating hours of Wheelock Dining Hall, student dining plans are not available during the summer, however residence kitchen facilities are still available to residents.

Graduation

Residence accommodation is available for graduating students from the date the residences close to the date of their Convocation. Arrangements are made with Residence Life early in the winter semester. Residents must pay the established room-rate in advance. As only one residence will remain open for graduation stay-over, residents will have to move to a room in the selected residence, unless they are already living in the selected residence.

Guests of graduates are also permitted to stay in residence during Convocation. Guests are permitted to stay for a maximum of four nights prior to the graduation date, and one day after the graduation date. Students must register through the Box Office, and pay the appropriate room-rate before their guests arrive.
Trunk Room Storage

Trunk room storage is available to all students living in residence to store items during the academic year, and to students returning to residence for the next academic year to store items over the summer months. Due to space limitations, residents are permitted to store a maximum of:

- 3 items weighing no more than 50 pounds each if they reside in the Maritimes;
- 5 items weighing no more than 50 pounds each if they reside in Newfoundland and Labrador, Quebec, Ontario or New England;
- 8 items weighing no more than 50 pounds each if they reside anywhere else.

Residence Life Staff members are not responsible for lifting students' items onto storage shelves.

Storage is not available for carpeting or furniture, and refrigerators can only be stored if they are defrosted and cleaned. Items must be sealed in storage containers, and each item must be clearly identified with the student’s name, home address, Acadia ID number, a brief description of the contents, and their room assignment. Any item that could result in the growth of fungus or bacteria, and any item capable of starting a fire cannot be stored.

Trunk room access will be provided by appointment with a Resident Assistant. Acadia University is not responsible for the theft, damage or loss of any stored items; residents must make their own arrangements to insure their belongings. Items not claimed by the end of September of each academic year will be disposed of at the discretion of the University.
Living with Roommates

For most students, living in residence is the first time a student will share a room. Living with a roommate can be one of the most challenging and rewarding experiences residents will have while at Acadia. Living successfully with another person involves ongoing communication, trust, courtesy, willingness to share, mutual respect, and genuine concern for that person. Residents need to consider the impact of the decisions they make on the person(s) they live with.

Roommate Agreements

All residents living in double rooms will complete a roommate agreement with the assistance of a Residence Life staff member after their arrival on campus. The roommate agreement process is important because it allows residents to discuss and establish expectations, and consider potential areas of conflict at the beginning of the year before they occur. Some areas of discussion include:

- Room cleanliness
- Study time
- Shared items
- Music
- Noise levels
- Sleeping and bedtime hours
- Guests
- Phone use
- Private time
- Room temperature

Roommates or Best Friends?

Many residents make the error of thinking they and their roommate are sure to become best friends. While in some cases roommates do become close, in other cases they do not. Residents who try to force a friendship with their roommate may make their roommate feel uncomfortable; lasting friendships occur naturally over time. On the other hand, a best friend from home might not be the best choice as a roommate, if sharing a space will uncover new conflicts with that person. Being friends is not required to live successfully with a roommate; although respect, trust, and communication are.
Addressing Roommate Conflicts

Learning how to positively resolve conflict is an important life skill that will benefit residents in countless situations. Residents experiencing conflict with their roommate are encouraged to follow the three-step conflict resolution process outlined below. Residents who approach a Resident Assistant or the Department of Residence Life without completing the prior step(s) in the process may be directed to the appropriate step.

Conflict Resolution Process

1. When conflict begins to occur, it is important that residents speak up and raise the issue for discussion early on, before it becomes a larger problem. It is much easier to work through conflicts early before they grow. When discussing problems, it is important that roommates exercise empathy and honesty, and respect, however they should also be assertive and specific in their requests.

2. After roommates have tried without success to work through the problems themselves, their Resident Assistant can assist in mediating conflict. The Resident Assistants will only mediate after residents have attempted to resolve dispute on their own. The RA may establish a meeting time in a neutral area, lay the ground rules for the mediation, and ask the residents to prepare a list of items they wish to discuss. It is important that residents approach the mediation process with an open mind, and are prepared to listen to their roommate and communicate their issues openly and honestly.

3. If mediation fails, the Resident Assistant will refer the residents to the Residence Life Coordinator who will explore other options with them, including reassignment.
Dining on Campus

Acadia recognizes that food service is a critical component of the Residence Life Program, and seeks to provide residence students with quality dining options marked by flexibility and value. This section discusses the student dining options, plans, and other aspects of the residence life food service program.

Unlimited Dining plans are compulsory for all students living in residence. Students may choose between the 5-day plan, the 7-day plan, the 7-day plus plan (includes $325 dining dollars) and the 7-day max plan (includes $650 dining dollars).

Wheelock Hall

Wheelock Dining Hall has become a versatile and personalized space for Acadia students to enjoy. Enjoy Wheelock Dining Hall and make it your destination for meals, group meetings, casual coffee or study. Specifically, students can look forward to:

- A diverse seating plan, which includes booths, smaller round tables and raised, bar-like seating.
- An Unlimited Dining Plan that allows students to eat and visit as often as they like during operational hours.
- Living room-like areas, which feature sofa seating and televisions.

Special Dietary Needs

Special dietary needs are accommodated by the university’s dining service provider. Residents requiring assistance coordinating their special dietary needs should contact the Residential Dining Manager at (902) 542-3049.

Sick Trays

Sick trays can be prepared for students unable to make it to meals. Residents requiring a sick tray must first have their SRA or RA prepare a ‘Sick Tray Request Form.’ After the form has been prepared, the resident must arrange for somebody to take the completed form to the Wheelock Dining Hall staff, and bring the tray back to them.

Bag Lunches

Bag lunches are available to residence students through the food service program. The lunches are prepared by custom order first thing in the morning, and are available for pick-up at Wheelock Dining Hall. Bag lunches must be ordered in advance through the Residential Dining Manager at (902) 542-3049.
Other Locations

Aside from Wheelock, residents may use their dining dollars at three café locations in the Beveridge Arts Centre, Huggins Science Hall, and the Athletics Complex. These locations provide a modest selection of sandwiches, soup, drinks, and snack foods.

Acadia Student Union Outlets

The ASU offers several food service locations in the Student Union building. Dining dollars cannot be used to purchase food at these locations.

Perkin’s

Perkin’s café offers a bright seating area and coffee shop atmosphere. Perkin’s serves soups, sandwiches, muffins, drinks and smoothies.

Union Market
