

Call for Nominations 2023 Acadia Alumni Faculty Award for Excellence in Teaching

The Acadia Alumni Faculty Award for Excellence in Teaching recognizes a continued record of excellence in teaching students and future alumni of Acadia University, with a focus on the faculty member's professional and teaching accomplishments. This award is an expression of the Alumni Association's pride and appreciation for outstanding faculty, their service to the education of future alumni, and their promotion of the best interests of Acadia.

Consideration in the selection process is given to the following criteria:

- 1) Favourable Evaluation by Students: Consideration of repeated and consistently high evaluations by students across courses, seminars, and sessions taught.
- 2) Lasting Influence on Students: Consideration of influence through classroom instruction, supervision of honours or graduate students, academic or career success of former students, and/or acknowledgement by former students.
- 3) Innovation in Teaching: New course design and development, creative use of technology, creative use of teaching resources, collaborative or interdisciplinary approaches to teaching, imaginative presentation of traditional material, innovative curriculum design, and any other evidence of innovation in the candidate's teaching.
- 4) Accessibility to Students: Provides overall quality of interactions and guidance to students outside of classroom hours. Approachability and accessibility to students. Flexibility in meeting students' special needs. Availability for academic counselling. Takes time and makes the effort to be available to assist students with academic needs and education outside the traditional classroom setting.
- 5) Expertise in Field/Discipline: The candidate has expert knowledge of the subject matter, enthusiasm for the subject, and the capacity to create student interest.
- 6) Teaching Ability/Effort: The candidate is prepared for teaching in lectures, laboratories, seminars or tutorials. The candidate can communicate effectively at levels appropriate to the students' capacities, encourage student participation in the teaching-learning process, and establish high standards and motivate students to attain them. Evaluation of student performance demonstrates and measures substantive understanding and not just memorization.
- 7) Educational Leadership: Consultation with colleagues from similar or different disciplines on teaching and learning methods and an overall commitment to the improvement of teaching/student learning at the university level. Being viewed as a leader in education within their respective discipline as well as a leader at Acadia.
- 8) Above and Beyond: An example where the candidate has gone above and beyond typical faculty responsibilities.

The Acadia Alumni Association derives strength from the diversity of our alumni community. As a result, the Association is committed to creating a culture of inclusion and equity in the work they do and encourages nominations from all races, colours, religions, genders, gender identities or expressions, sexual orientations, national origins, abilities, or ages as candidates for award consideration.

Nominations must be submitted by November 30, 2022 for consideration for the 2023 award. The award will be presented to the recipient at the Graduation Banquet held in May and the successful recipient's name will be announced at the convocations in May.
